Abstract

A method and system for computer instruction is provided. The method includes displaying a question and list of possible answers with associated boxes to a user. The 5   user can check those boxes that the user believes correspond to the correct answer or answers to the question.